As there is more interest in track athletics on the heights this season than in years, it was sincerely hoped that read mission to the governing body of the Eastern colleges could be obtained. Had the vote on Saturday been favorable, practically the whole squad would have been sent to Philadelphia. It is the opinion of many that if Eller should start, he would be one of the stars of the carnival, and in addition to winning the carnival, and in addition to winning points for the university, would possibly hang up a new record in the hurdles. The Georgetown squad returned from Richmond last night. The showing in the meet there, in which Georgetown missed winning the team trophy by but a single point, was especially encouraging. While Eller was easily the star of the games, Chapman, Davis, Landon, Golden and the rest contributed their part, and now Georgetown sees a chance of winning the team trophy in the at Convention Hall on Saturday evening.

BOB THAYER'S Sporting Gossip

"Every Knock Is a Boost."

Georgetown is unfortunate.

Owing to the failure of teams in the pas, to send at least three men to the meets of the Intercollegiate A. A., Bob Eller will lose an opportunity of winning a championship, as he undoubtedly would, if he were allowed to start in the hurdles at Franklin Field this spring.

Outlaws about to vanish.

Plans are under way to conduct boxing matches at Bladensburg, three wellknown sports being up over their heads in the deal. They intend to erect an up-to-date clubhouse and believe they can make it pay. They claim to have backing and the good will of the authorities of Prince George county, A Washington man has been named to referee. All is merry as a marriage bell-so far.

Rockville fair coming.

Doc Reisling, who once tried to be a regular twirler in the big league, with no credentials but a glove and a grin, is mentioned as possible manager of the Reading club of the outlaw United States League, Hope Doc doesn't try to be a playing manager.

Bowlers like Washington.

There is hardly to be any real contests in Texas between the Giants and the world's champion Athletics because, under the rules of the national commission, the regular players of these teams are forbidden to engage in barnstorming games with major league clubs. The substitutes would hardly draw a corporal's guard.

Hoppe accepts challenge.

Muggsy McGraw is out, with a prediction that Christy Mathewson will win at least twenty games this season. and possibly twenty-five, if he gets the breaks in luck. The veteran fadeaway hurler is not as strong as he once was, but his craft and skill is as great as ever. He may do it.

Wisconsin vs. Navy.

Manager Griffith does well to deny the constantly recurring statements that Jack Flynn is practically certain to be the regular first baseman for the Nationals this season. Such loose talk, if he really said it, would kill all ambition in Chester Spencer, who, from all accounts, is a promising player. Flynn has nothing but an outside chance, judging from his former work in the big leagues.

Can you blame Griff?

First we had three outlaw leagues, then two, now a consolidation, and the next thing we may expect is a grand blow ep. The circuit now stretches from Mike Yokel, of Salt Lake City. An interesting contest is expected, as the two are regarded as unusually well promoters expect this to be a go is matched in strength and skill. This will be their second meeting.
